

Guardian Angels Sitting Service Expands Business

Guardian Angels Sitting Service recently celebrated its two year anniversary, and expanded their sitting services from just babysitting to include watching over the elderly and pets. In addition to serving the Beaufort County area, they recently branched out to Charleston and Savannah with over 50 sitters to watch over what matters most.

Guardian Angels provides day, evening and over night care for children, the elderly and pets. Elderly companionship services include providing conversation and company, making light meals, helping around the house with cleaning and taking clients out for short outings. Elderly errand services include grocery store shopping, dropping off dry cleaning, picking up prescriptions, etc. Pet sitting services range from a 15-minute visit and 30-minute daily dog walking visits to over-night stays and pet taxi services.

"All of our sitters are responsible and reliable," said Melissa Monge, owner of Guardian Angels. "They are compassionate and caring individuals who have demonstrated love and understanding."

The sitting referral agency offers sitters who are screened through an in-depth interview, nationwide background check, sex offender search, verified references and Safe Sitting Orientation. Additionally, sitters are adult/infant/child CPR certified.

Guardian Angels provides sitters for any occasion — including after-school, corporate events, summer, vacation, last-minute, groups and mother helpers. Guardian Angels is the exclusive sitting service for Palmetto Bluff and many major hotels on Hilton Head Island and Savannah. They are available for major events, including weddings, company events, military strong bonds retreats and the Marine Birthday Balls.

"Our slogan is 'Watching Over All that Matters'," Monge said. "That's why we only hire the best, most qualified sitters."
